Proud tradition of Windmill Village

At the Windmill Village Hotel a standard of excellence sets the tone. Steeped in tradition and history, records show there was a mill on the site as far back as 1510. We're proud to carry on the tradition of welcoming visitors that started almost 300 years ago. That's when the original "Winde Mill House" was converted into a coaching inn. Legend has it that Dick Turpin, the infamous highwayman, stayed at the inn. The Village offers a mixture of hotel and cottage accommodation.

Fairways Restaurant & Cellar Bar

The Windmill Village welcomes golfers with an enjoyable atmosphere and delicious food. Overlooking the golf course is the elegant conservatory styled Fairways Restaurant serving a carvery over the weekend and a fine a la carte menu to suit all tastes during the week.

On the other hand after completing your round, tuck into a casual meal in the lively and authentic Cellar Bar, restored from the original cellars of the coaching inn. It provides the perfect end to your day with evening entertainment, a large selection of real ales, regular live music, and a late licence.

Private dinners

If you prefer to hold a private dinner for your society or corporate golf day, we have a choice of suites for small or large groups. Experienced staff will guide you through room layouts, seating plans, menus, wine selection, entertainment and etiquette to suit the occasion. We can also assist with any special themes you may wish to adopt, leaving you, on the night, to relax and entertain your guests.

Relax at your leisure

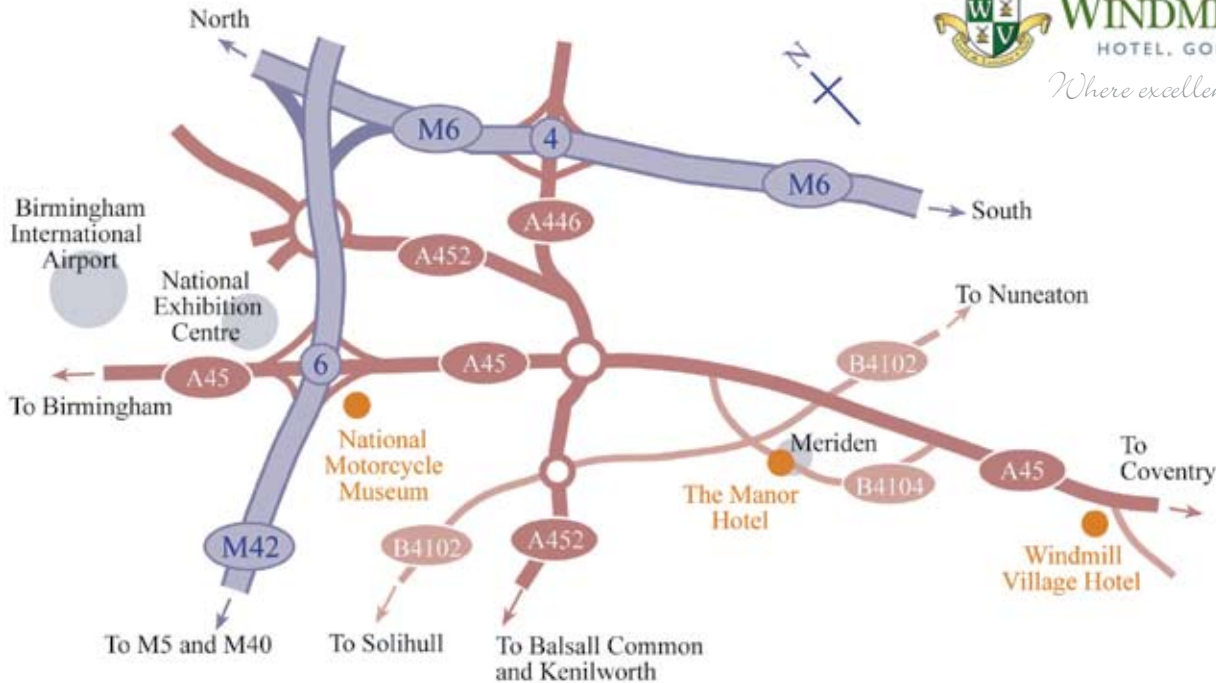

After honing your game, make the most of your golf break and relax in the Windmill Village Leisure Club with its 20m indoor pool, Jacuzzi, sauna, steamroom, solarium and gym complex.
